

18th Czech and Slovak Conference on Magnetism

7 – 11 July, 2025, High Tatras, Slovak Republic

It is with great pleasure that the organizing committee of the CSMAG'25 invites you to a special performance by a traditional Slovak folklore ensemble Skadzi Stadzi, where you'll experience the beauty and vibrancy of Slovakia's cultural heritage.

Join us for an evening of captivating music, singing, and authentic traditions that have been passed down for generations.

The performance will take place on Thursday, July 10, 2025 at 19:00 as part of an event combined with dinner.

The current ensemble of Skadzi Stadzi is mainly dedicated to singing works in accordance with short dance choreographies and at the same time presents folk music of different regions of Slovakia. The repertoire consists of songs from different regions of Slovakia, customary bands of calendar ceremonial folklore and independent singing performances in alternative costumes. During the CSMAG'25 conference the ensemble will present a singing group of well-known songs from the Zemplín region and an emotional and joyful group in the Rusyn dialect.

Zemplín, a region with a rich cultural tradition, is known for its distinctive folklore expression.

Traditional singing in Zemplín is characterised by a distinctive melody, strong emotional expression and archaic elements that reflect the life of the rural population. The songs often accompany various life events - weddings, harvests or religious festivals - and retain a deep connection with nature and everyday life.

The Ruthenians, an indigenous ethnic group living mainly in northeastern Slovakia. Ruthenian folklore is distinguished by its authenticity and strong connection with nature and spiritual life. It includes folk dances, customs, fairy tales and, above all, singing.
